High thoughts and noble in all lands
Help me, my soul is fed by such.
But oh, the touch of life and hands,
The human touch.
Warm, vital, close, life's symbols dear,
These need I most, and now, and here.

Foreword

After several months of contemplation and of thought upon the matter herein contained, it has at last come about that we have been able to produce this book with such pleasure of spirit, that if it gives to you but a part of the joy it has afforded us, we shall be well content with what we have done.

In planning this book, we have hoped that in years to come when the curtain has rung down on the last performance of college life, that this Mound may draw aside once more that curtain and give you a glimpse back into the enchanting realms of the past. Each act of the fascinating drama will bring back fond memories of carefree days with their youthful happiness and youthful sorrows—the joy of living them, the sorrow of leaving them, regained again for a brief space of time.

So, in the year of grace One Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty-seven, we present to you this Mound, as a token of our friendship and esteem. May you cherish it forever!

who has served the college faithfully for the past twenty-five years. Throughout this period she has made a conscious effort to help develop and improve this college. Today the changes wrought by her capable hands are extremely apparent and praiseworthy. For, skillfully guided by her, the registration system and department has increased greatly, until it is most efficient and valuable.

The duties of our registrar are ones of grave responsibility. She is directly responsible for every student who is enrolled in this institution, from the very first time he is admitted until time indefinite. She takes a personal interest in the students thus entrusted to her care, and advises and guides them, not because of necessity, but because of her love for and pride in the school itself.

She does not limit her usefulness to the campus alone, but is very active and helpful in realms outside of the institution. She is a member of the American Association of University Women and has served as president of the Fairmont branch for the past year, as well as secretary of the state organization. She also holds membership in the American Association of Collegiate Registrars, the American Association of University Professors, the Council of Administrative Women in Education, the National Educational Association, the West Virginia State Educational Association, the Business and Professional Women's Club, and Kappa Delta Pi.

Thus, we, the Mound Staff of Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-seven, respectfully dedicate this book to our dear friend and counsellor, Miss Ethel Ice.

They say that life is a highway and its milestones are the years.
Now and then there's a tall gate where you buy your way with tears.
It's a steep road and a rough road,
and it stretches broad and far,
But at last it leads to a golden town,
where golden houses are.

Act 1937

C a m p u s

It is most impressive — the college campus. Like a great castle of old England it stands proudly on the crest of its own world, far above and remote from the universe below. Its foundation, unapproachable by secrecy, is indeed similar to the mighty fortress that sheltered the knights in the days of old. The college denotes pride and strength—and things unconquerable—things surpassing the strength of men. About it lies the glamour, the ruggedness, and the mystery of the English castle. Although of a more recent birth and boasting of modernism, still it retains that power of old, that glory, and that supremacy which had its beginning in the early years of England and which can never be destroyed.

Fairmont State

Standing proudly and nobly on the crest of its own magnificent mound the Administration Building of the college campus is most impressive and picturesque in all of its knightly splendor. This mighty fortress of learning is one of the most beautiful and one of the loveliest spots in all west Virginia. Like the great castles of old it stands sturdy and staunch — master of all. It is a creation of superior beauty, boasting of reflections from the olden days of chivalry and knighthood. It is a more modern interpretation of an ancient art, but in its transformation it loses none of its old glamour or grandeur.

Education does not mean teaching people what they do not know. It means teaching them to behave, as they do not behave. It is a painful, continual and difficult work to be done by kindness, by watching, by warning, by precept, and by praise, but above all — by example.

—John Ruskin.

Administration

Throughout all the ages in the great land of England there has always been in existence the few important powers. Their names and deeds have made past history. On the college campus of today the members of the faculty have become these historical personages. Just as the past great leaders guided and directed the masses and overcame difficult obstacles, so have the college administrators conquered ignorance and promoted culture and enlightenment. The administrators and students have thus become actors in an intense drama of life. The faculty with a masterful hand, guides its loyalists through the gigantic cycle of time.

Student government occupies a high position on the list of activities at Fairmont State Teachers College. The Student Body is a self-governing organization with duly elected officers and representatives. Students control their own social and extra-curricular activities, and cooperate with the administration in all projects which are for the advancement of the institution.

For over thirty years the students at Fairmont College have had some form of self-government. As a result we now have a well-organized, efficient system which adequately administers student affairs. The Student Body is fully cognizant of the responsibility which the school administration has placed upon it, and labors unceasingly to justify that trust.

Live for something, have a purpose,
And that purpose keep in view;
Drifting like a helpless vessel,
Thou canst ne'er to life be true,
Half the wrecks that strew life's ocean,
If some start had been their guide,
Might have long been riding safely,
But they drifted with the tide.

—Robert Whitaker.

Classes

In the days of Shakespeare the high and mighty Queen of England guided and directed her worthy sailors far out over rough, stormy, treacherous water to seek fortune and fame. So does the college today, with its competent teaching staff, direct and safely guide its students far out into the sea of learning to seek that which is one's greatest and most precious treasure — Knowledge.

Senior College Class

As the class of '37 looks back upon the years spent in Fairmont State College, there is in the heart of each individual a bit of regret that the time for farewells has come. But the regret is surpassed by a feeling of thankfulness for the knowledge and experience gained within the institution, and a realization that each is beginning at last the race for which he has been preparing.

This graduating class is a remarkable one, in that there is so large a percentage of its members who have shown initiative in working their way through school. It is the hope of the group that they have contributed toward making Fairmont State College a living, growing institution.

Junior College Class

The Junior Class of this year feels that it has done much in upholding the high standards that they set up for themselves three years ago when they entered Fairmont College as Freshmen.

The class has excelled in many fields of activity during the year. Dramatics, Athletics, and social funtions have had the ardent support of the class of '38.

The Juniors this year sponsored their most outstanding social function in the form of the Junior Prom. This affair was the highlight of the social season of Fairmont College. So with optimism the Class of 1938 looks forward to its most distinguished year upon the campus, in which it hopes to raise the standards and ideals of Fairmont State Teachers College.

Senior Normal Class

1937 brings again to an end the brief sojourn of the members of the Senior Normal Class. The activities of this class have been crowded into a short space of time. For the past two years they have been outstanding on the college campus and have sponsored many attractive and important social functions. In the early fall they were hosts to a most successful dinner for the entire membership of the class. With the coming of spring they added to the social calendar of the school with an equally as attractive tea for all critic teachers and supervisors.

A change in the schedule of two of the officers of the class have placed them out of the Senior Normal group. Thus they no longer serve in this capacity. The two new officers are: Vice-president, Nalda Shutts; secretary-treasurer, Avis Nutter.

Act 1937
Scene IV
Athletics

In the days of long ago, a horseman, riding through the forest, might suddenly come upon four men, standing under a large tree. Two of them would be facing each other, swords drawn. At a signal, the two would begin thrusting and feinting, each resolved to end the life of the other.

Today the observer at any athletic event will see two teams, each playing for the fun of the game. Instead of the clash of steel on steel, there is the shrill of the referee's whistle, or the signals being given for "punt formation." Replacing the battle of hatred, malice, or deadly intent, is a contest of good will.

The lesson which the athlete learns of fair play and honesty will be one to carry over into any occupation which he may pursue. Participation in athletics serves to build character and mental strength as well as physical stamina.

JASPER COLEBANK
Athletic Coach

WILBUR JONES
Assistant Football Coach

Here is a quartet of hard-working men who answered the every need of the Fighting Teachers, both on and off the gridiron. Head Coach Jasper Colebank and his assistant, Wilbur Jones, teamed up on their task of building a football machine in the best manner possible with the material they had.

ORVAL HAMMON
Captain

Orval Hammon captained the Maroon and White on the gridiron in excellent style, while Harold Smith administered to the needs of the gridders in a managerial way. Both were excellent in their individual work.

ORVAL HAMMON
Fullback

"Bull" captained the Maroon and White in his fourth year as a regular. He played two years as a lineman, but lack of backfield material in 1935 forced Coach Colebank to model him into a first-class fullback. Hammon's mighty line plunges and bullet-like passes were a highlight of the season.

JOHN HOOVER
Halfback

"Buck" played his second year as a regular, being one of the speed merchants of the squad. He was one of the best broken-field runners on the team, and his return of a punt to a touchdown to win the Shepherd game put Hoover's name in the headlines. Big things are expected of this gridder in the coming seasons.

HAROLD DUVALL
Quarterback

"Deacon's" speed was valuable to the Colebankers when the going was the toughest. He was expert on end runs, and could find the holes and intercept passes with the best of backs. Duvall has one more year to show his ability to the Fighting Teachers' followers.

RICHARD WARE
Center

Dick came to Fairmont from Webster Springs along with Captain Hammon. Although not a regular, Ware got his chance when the varsity center was injured in the Shepherd clash. He filled Kundratik's shoes satisfactorily and is expected to take care of the center post in his remaining three years.

ANGELO CRESCENZI
Tackle

"Angie" landed a berth on the first eleven after one year's plucky battling. A husky lad, Crescenzi came through with flying colors, and his sparkling performance gave Fairmont College's foes plenty of worry on the gridiron. He has two more years to show his dependable ability.

CHARLES FORTNEY
End

Charlie played brilliant ball in his first year as a member of the varsity eleven. Although he failed to make the team in his first two years, Fortney came through this year to gain a regular position on the team. Aggressiveness and active head work earned the captaincy of next fall's eleven for Charles.

BERNARD JOYCE
Guard

"Bernie" obtained a lot of valuable experience last fall and turned it into real advantage this year in behalf of the Fighting Teacher eleven. He was especially valuable on the defense but handled any duties faithfully when called upon. He will be among the missing when next season opens.

PAUL KUNDRATIK
Center

"Polly" was the lightest member of the team, but easily its hardest fighting man. His aggressiveness overcame his weight handicap and won him a regular post on the Colebank-Jones machine. A dislocated shoulder kept him from the field for a time, but he returned before the season ended.

GEORGE BYRER
Halfback

George was another junior who earned a regular spot in the backfield. He was a dependable ball carrier, but was chosen to do the bulk of the blocking for the other backs. Carrying the ball or making a path, Byrer fulfilled his task well. Great things are expected of him in the coming season.

WILBUR MURRAY
Guard

"Mac" entered college for his first year and experienced little trouble in landing a first team berth. His playing was above reproach at all times, and he took ample care of his share of the line, too. Murray was big but handled his weight smoothly in out-witting his foes.

ALBERT FULTZ
End

"Buzzy" played his third year as a regular end for the Maroon and White eleven. Besides taking expert care of his end of the line, Fultz was called back to do the punting and the kicking for extra points. His talented toe tacked on the winning point against Shepherd in the Rams' Homecoming Day game.

EDWARD HUGHES
Guard

"Zack" came back to school last fall to step into a regular guard position and has held it down for two seasons. Although not a giant in stature, Hughes could be depended upon to make a hole when we needed a gain through the line. Coaches Colebank and Jones could use more of his kind.

Season's Summary

FACTS and figures relative to the 1936 football season of Fairmont State Teachers College do not altogether speak for themselves. Coaches Jasper Colebank and Wilbur Jones had seven members of the 1935 eleven on hand at the start of the season, but injuries and a late start in pre-season practice nullified what might have been a highly-successful gridiron year for the Fighting Teachers.

At that, the 1936 gridiron record showed an improvement over that of the year before. The Maroon and White warriors chalked up a pair of victories, were defeated six times, and tied once in a nine-game schedule.

FAIRMONT 0; CONCORD 19

The schedule opened after only two weeks of practice with the Concord Mountain Lions unleashing a powerful aerial attack that paved the way to a 19-0 victory. The visitors' scores were made in the second, third, and fourth quarters with passes scoring two, and another putting the oval in scoring position.

FAIRMONT 0; GLENVILLE 20

Nate Rohrbough's Pioneers took advantage of the breaks to turn back a stubborn Fighting Teacher eleven in the second tilt played on the Glenville field by a three-touchdown margin.

FAIRMONT 0; CALIFORNIA 0

Playing on a gridiron that more nearly resembled a quagmire, the Colebankers fought to a scoreless draw with the Pennsylvania Vulcans.

FAIRMONT 14; SHEPHERD 13

A garrison finish supplied by "Buck" Hoover, "Buzzy" Fultz, and Captain Hammon paved the way for this one-point victory over the scrappy Rams in their Homecoming Day tussle. Shepherd took a 13-0 lead midway in the third quarter. It was then that the Colebankers put on pressure to shove Hammon and Hoover across for touchdowns with Fultz converting both of the all-important extra points.

FAIRMONT 0; SALEM 25

Inability to muzzle the fleet-footed Johnny Uram of the Tiger eleven accounted for the four touchdown margin scored by Salem before a crowd of 2,500 people at the annual Dad's Day game at Rosier Field. Salem's touchdowns were made in the first, second, and fourth periods with two of them scored by Uram. Fairmont's only threat was at the start of the second half when they marched to the 26-yard line.

FAIRMONT 0; WEST LIBERTY 8

On one of the coldest days of the season, Joe Bartell's Hilltoppers were able to nose out the Maroon and White by an 8-0 score, with all scoring in the initial half. "Ossie" Rometo, diminutive West Liberty back, bucked through tackle for an eight-yard gain and score early in the first quarter. A bad pass from center that went into the end zone for an automatic safety accounted for the Hilltoppers' other two points.

FAIRMONT 0; POTOMAC STATE 6

November 14th was a windy day at Keyser and that fact enabled the Catamounts to defeat the Colebankers by one touchdown. The Potomac State eleven scored in less than five minutes of play when Fultz' punt was blown out of bounds on his own five-yard line. Three plays were necessary for the score and a line-buck for the extra point failed.

FAIRMONT 0; BETHANY 19

John Knight's powerful Bison machine took over the local lads with a score of 19 to 0 in next to the last game of the season. Slack, Pearson, and Hanna scored for Bethany in the first and second quarters for the day's only tallies.

FAIRMONT 9; MORRIS HARVEY 6

The Fighting Teachers put a brilliant finish to the gridiron season by scoring a thrilling three-point victory over the Golden Eagles at Rosier Field on Thanksgiving Day.

Basketball

ALBERT FULTZ, Captain

Playing his third season as a regular on Coach Colebank's basketball quintet, "Buzzy" set out to make it his best and accomplished his aim. He fulfilled the qualifications of a captain in every sense and was one of the most willing pupils under Jasper Colebank's able tutelage.

He had his off nights, of course, when the ball just wouldn't drop through the netting, but when he had his good evenings the opposition was only too aware of his presence. In addition to being a powerful scorer, he is a crack defensive player. And fortunately he'll be back.

ROBERT HUTCHINSON, Manager

Efficient basketball managers are not a rarity at Fairmont State Teachers College and "Bo" was no exception to the rule. He administered adequately to the wants of the basketeers and ably contributed his share to a good season.

And Bob had an able assistant in Fraley Louden, who made the trips with the team when it was impossible for the manager to go. Coach Colebank was never more pleased with a pair of managers than he was with these.

KERN, Center

"Shang" ended his college career this winter with the Fighting Teachers in a glorious manner. For four successive years Glenn held down the pivot position for Coach Colebank, and when he was in the game, there was nothing to worry about from his position.

THOMPSON, Forward

"Bill, although just a freshman, broke into the starting lineup in several games and came up to the expectations of Coach Colebank. Thompson is fast and a deadly shot, as well as a smooth passer. His accurate firing accounted for many of the team's points.

TEETS, Forward

Glenn was the smallest man on the squad, but despite his slight stature his floor game was sparkling. He was a real Fighting Teacher and made up for his only shortcoming by his ability to step lively and fight fiercely. A valuable prospect to have around.

BYRER, Forward

"Cutter" added more laurels to his athletic career with another fine basketball season. George was stocky but fast, and an excellent floor man. Another flashy and deceptive passer, Byrer could account for his share of the points when the fight was the toughest.

DUVALL, Guard

"Deacon's" passing and brilliant defensive performances during the cage campaign were a feature of the season. His clever passing and neat dribbling added many points to his team's score, and besides being a "natural" at guard, Duvall can hit the loop with the best of them.

WARE, Center

"Dick" was hampered on the basketball court by being an understudy to such a brilliant and veteran performer as Kern. However, he saw plenty of action at forward posts, and often fitted in at the pivot position when Kern was having an off night.

DAVIS, Forward

Willis, a sophomore, made a good running-mate for Byrer in the fore court. Although he did not start all of the games, his insertion meant the same to the team as a missing spark plug. He would step in immediately and start the team on rallies which often won the game.

FULTZ, Guard

"Buzzy" continued his sterling work at guard for his third straight year. His accuracy at long range accounted for many of the team's field goals, and his opponents were careful to prevent him from getting "set" shots. He was number-one defensively, too.

BILLINGHAM, Guard

Ed was another freshman who was up against two veteran players in battling for a berth on the floor quintet. Although he failed to land a regular position, he was an excellent substitute and showed much promise and proved his ability many times.

FORTNEY, Guard

Charlie played his first year of varsity basketball this season, his junior year at Fairmont. Although he performed in but few games, Coach Colebank knew he had a ready and able sub" when he called upon Fortney. The college will have his services next year.

Season's Summary

LIVING up to the custom of playing "in and out" ball, the Fairmont State Teachers College floor quintet batted .364 for the 1936-37 season, winning eight games out of 22 starts.

Despite their indifferent success during the season, the Fighting Teachers proved to be one of the "dark horses" of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament at Clarksburg. The proteges of Jasper Colebank won their first tournament game by defeating Potomac State, and then tripped a seeded Bethany five to enter the semi-finals. But here Salem was too tough and edged the local cagers out after a thrilling battle.

The season opened at Marietta, O., with a 13-point loss registered. Glenville, conference champion, repeated the act, but the Teachers came back and won two on a trip before losing a close one to the Wesleyan Bobcats. Fairmont won two out of the next three tilts, but took a nose dive and dropped three straight, with Salem registering their second win over the locals.

The Maroon and White played brilliant ball to upset a flashy Davis Elkins outfit by an overwhelming, 47-29, score. Here the Colebankers lost their course again and were the victims by four successive losses, three of which were by five points or less. They retaliated to avenge an earlier Broaddus defeat, but were nosed out the following night by Concord in a 45-44 tussle. Potomac State upset the dope bucket and licked the Teachers, and the Davis Elkins Senators did likewise on the Elkins floor.

The season ended with Fairmont smashing out a brilliant 67 to 43 victory over Shepherd in easily their best-played game of the year.

Baseball

WITH several regulars from the 1935 diamond squad available for the 1936 team, Coach Jasper Colebank molded together a nine that displayed a clever brand of ball throughout their seven-game schedule. Despite the fact that they were the victors in but two of seven starts, the nine fought with a will and proved that they were real Fighting Teachers.

Rain postponed the opening of the season, and a wet, cold spring prevented them from getting the proper amount of preparation.

As a nucleus for his club, Coach Colebank used June Snoderly and Henry Shenosky on the mound with Chuck Wargo behind the plate. The infield was composed of Slick Sampson, Wayne Swiger, Paul Kundratik, Bernie Joyce, and Art Quattro. The outer gardens were patrolled by Buzzy Fultz, Benny Kenjouria, and Pete Walls. The highlights of the season were the twin victories over their arch rivals, the Salem Tigers, in the best two out of three combats.

Tennis

THE tennis team played a rather full schedule of matches last year. They were thrown against several outstanding teams of this state and its neighbor, Pennsylvania. Doctor Lindley developed quite a hard-fighting squad from his veterans and newcomers. As a result they won two of their matches and were well represented in the others. The veterans that will be back for the 1937 squad are George Williamson, Orin Ford, and Charles Witt.

Organizations

The knights of old have given to the modern age many things of value and dignity that can never be forgotten or replaced. The organizations on the college campus have a firm foundation, founded on many of these earliest traditions and creeds. The spirit of cooperation and loyalty that is so manifest among the Greek organizations on the campus can readily be traced back to the unequalled loyalty and worthiness of the mighty men of early England.

Friendly rivalry and youthful combat of wits and prowess also have their place today as they had yesterday. Those ambitious and fearless knights have given the campus groups the highest of ideals and the worthiest of goals that make for stronger and more creditable organizations.

Tau Beta Iota

The Tau Beta Iota Fraternity was founded on the campus of Fairmont State College in November, 1925. Since it was the first fraternal organization to be established at Fairmont State College its members have always worked together, bound by undying bonds of brotherhood, toward the common goal of higher social and scholastic standards.

Membership in the organization can be obtained only by meeting the very rigid requirements which govern prospective members in their period of pledging. Chief among these requisites are: Outstanding participation in extra-curricular activities, attainment of a high scholastic average, and character and reputation absolutely above reproach.

The fraternity has gained a reputation for its outstanding social events, and also for its annual, all-male musical show written and directed by members of the organization. Other activities of the year include T. B. I. Pep Campaign, Hallowe'en Party, Turkey Dance, Christmas Dance, and annual Spring Formal. It is a well known fact on the campus that whenever a worthwhile project is started a T. B. I. is always lending active support.

Gamma Chi Chi

The Gamma Chi Chi sorority was organized on February 27, 1926, and was the first sorority on the campus. There were six charter members. At first membership was limited to Morrow Hall girls, but later it was decided to consider other girls on the campus.

We have a membership of 201, including alumnae and actives.

Our aim has been to assist the college in every way possible. We started in 1928 by helping the faculty with registration.

Traditional events which are held each year are: Fall Tea for the faculty and sorority members, Winter Formal, Founder's Day Banquet, Minstrel, Mother-Daughter Banquet, Spring Formal and Farewell Banquet.

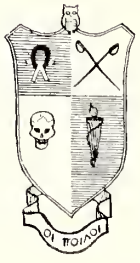
Omicron Pi



Since the founding of the Omicron Pi fraternity in the spring of 1927, and the recognition of the fraternity on January 10, 1928, by the student Council, this brotherhood has been noted as one of the most outstanding organizations on the campus. The brothers of this fraternity have continuously striven for the two highest ideals, scholarship and fellowship. In not other organizations has there been the continual feeling of brother hood than has survived in this fraternity since its origin.

This fraternity has endeavored to participate in all campus activities and maintain its honor among other groups.

Xi Chapter
Sigma Tau Gamma

The Sigma Tau Gamma Fraternity was founded at Missouri State Teachers College in Warrensburg, Missouri, on May 15, 1920.

This fraternity was founded by seventeen men of the Warrensburg College. It is known throughout the United States as the oldest state teachers college fraternity.

Xi Chapter was founded March 23, 1929, on the Fairmont State Teachers College campus, by a group of aggressive young men who turned to a bright future. Today the national state teachers college fraternity, Sigma Tau Gamma, has chapters in nine of the forty-eight states.

Xi chapter of Fairmont State Teachers College is one of the seventeen active chapters. It is striving, along with the other chapters of Sigma Tau Gamma, to produce men of quality and leadership for high ideals which make up scholarship and true college spirit.

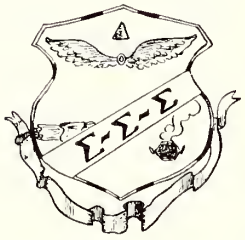
Sigma Sigma Sigma



The Sigma Sigma Sigma, national sorority, replaced the Tau Tau Tau, local sorority, on the college campus in May, 1930. Sigma Sigma Sigma is oldest known national education sorority. It was founded in Farmville, Va., in 1908 and has thirty alumnae chapters.

The aims of the sorority are to establish among its members a perpetual bond of friendship, to develop in them strong womanly character, and to impress them with the with the high standards of the teaching profession. Sigma Sigma Sigma believes that only through friendship and fellowship can a truly democratic spirit be developed on the campus, and it is attempting to do its bit toward developing this spirit by extending an offer of friendship and cooperation to every organization.

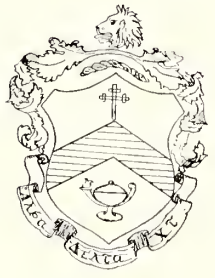
Alpha Delta Chi



Alpha Delta Chi, the fourth social sorority to be formed on the campus, was recognized by the student council December 6, 1929. There were eighteen charter members.

Alpha Delta Chi aims to inspire scholarship and sportsmanship, and to develop in its members those qualities which will make them the leaders of tomorrow. Its efforts are directed toward the development of a democratic spirit by being friendly and cooperative with all school organizations.

There is given each year for the faculty advisers and members of the sororities, a Hallowe'en Party; a "Who's Who" Tea for the faculty and outstanding members of the student body; and our annual Show Boat, instigated last year. For the group there is the Founder's Day Banquet, Mother-Daughter Banquet, Spring Formal, and Farewell Breakfast.

Delta Sigma Epsilon made its appearance on the campus in May, 1934, when the Beta Psi Beta Sorority became nationally affiliated. Delta Sigma Epsilon was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, September 23, 1914, and has thirty-two active chapters.

The aims of the sorority are to establish the all-embracing desire to stand out through consideration of others. What cannot be obtained by fair methods is not desirable. Honesty, integrity, and unselfishness win in the end.

The Colonial Tea in the fall, honoring the faculty, and the St. Patrick's Day tea dance in the spring, honoring the other sorities and fraternities, are the outstanding social functions of the year.

Zeta Sigma

The Zeta Sigma Fraternity is a national organization which was founded at Beckley College in 1934.

The West Virginia Alpha Chapter was chartered in May, 1935, and has been actively engaged in campus activities since it was recognized by the Student Council October 10, 1935.

Since its birth in 1934, Zeta Sigma has grown rapidly with the appearance of new chapters from eastern United States to Oklahoma.

The Fraternity's earnest desire is to give a group of worthy young men an opportunity to enter into the type of organization so essential to the individual's harmonious development while in college and this it has proudly accomplished.

The Fraternity membership is limited to those possessing integrity of character, scholastic achievement and those other attributes that make for fraternal association.

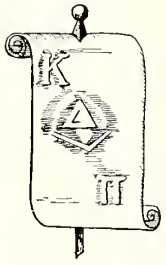
Beta Omega Chapter
Kappa Delta Pi



The Beta Omega Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary society in education, was established on the campus of Fairmont State Teacher's College in 1931, with twenty charter members.

The function of the organization is stated as follows from the constitution of the society: "The purpose of Kappa Delta Pi shall be to encourage in its members a higher degree of social service by (1) fostering high intellectual and personal standards during the period of preparation for teaching, and (2) recognizing outstanding service in the field of education.

"To this end it shall invite to membership such as exhibit educational ideals, sound scholarship and adequate personal qualifications. It shall endeavor to develop a high degree of professional fellowship among its members and shall foster professional growth by recognizing achievement in educational work."

Alpha Chapter of Alpha Psi Omega was founded August 25, 1925. From this beginning twelve years ago, there has developed one of the foremost national dramatic fraternities in the United States.

The fraternity is purely honorary, and is designed to reward students interested in the field of dramatics for faithful and enthusiastic service and achievement in that field. All work relative to production is recognized together with a definitely stated number of acting points necessary for eligibility. Thus the fraternity is able to bestow annually a reward on a represeantative group of dramatic workers.

Dr. Paul F. Opp, a member of Alpha Cast of Alpha Psi Omega, was responsible for the inception of the growing group. He holds at present the place of Grand Business Manager of the national organization. There are casts of Alpha Psi Omega in nearly every leading college and university in the United States.

The Masquers Club was organized in 1925 for the students who were interested and working in dramatics. Membership was open to everyone. Since then it has been one of the most active and well-known organizations on the campus and has earned a reputation throughout the state for its work in dramatics.

Every year Masquers produce four plays under the direction of Mr. L. A. Wallman; the plays that were given this year were "Your Uncle Dunley," "The Bad Man," "Men Must Fight," and "The Romantic Age."

Meeting once a month, the Masquers strive for programs that are both entertaining and instructive in all aspects of the drama. Beginning with this year a point system was established in the Masquers. Only students with a minimum of ten points in acting or production credit are eligible for membership.

This year the Masquers worked with the National Honorary Dramatic Fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega, who sponsored the State High School Thespian One-Act Play Contest.

Alpha Chapter of Lambda Delta Lambda, national honorary physical science fraternity, was organized at Fairmont State Teachers College in 1925, primarily to create interest in Chemistry and Physics. The organization has been highly successful in its scholastic achievements and ranks today as one of the most active honorary fraternities on the campus.

Nu Alpha Phi, honorary French fraternity, was organized as Nous Autres Francais in 1931 by students interested in French. Its standing as an honorary fraternity was recognized in March 1936 when the name of the society was changed. The primary purpose of the organization is to stimulate an active interest in the study and use of the French language. The accomplishment of this aim was furthered by the presentation of a program in French for the student body and also by the establishment of the "French Corner" in the Columns. Nu Alpha Phi is quickly taking its place as one of the outstanding fraternities on the campus.

The winter of 1935 saw the organization of Lambda Alpha Sigma, a new and different fraternal group on the Fairmont State Teachers College Campus. More informally known as the "Letterman's Club," it was originated by the young men who had been awarded school letters by the Athletic Council for their participation in athletics. A constitution was adopted and a charter granted by the Student Council on December 17, 1935.

The purpose of the Lambda Alpha Sigma is fourfold: To interpret the purpose of athletics in Fairmont State Teachers College as it is recognized by the administration; to give awards for athletic services; to create higher social and academic standards among fellow athletes; and to bring the athletic department closer to the student body and faculty.

This fraternity also has the privilege of publishing the annual "Dad's Day" football program and to act as host at the Football Student Mix.

Features

This year the Mound Staff has endeavored to present to its public some of the outstanding features of campus life. These features include a general survey of important achievements in the departments of music, art, science, physical education, and dramatics, as well as the publication of the Mound and the Columns. Each of these individual fields has shown much improvement and has made rapid strides in accumulating influence and importance.

This year two new departments, art and physical education for women, have achieved the position wherein Bachelor of Art degrees may be granted.

There is no doubt but that these "features" have brought to the school new honors and new laurels heretofore unknown.

The staff of the 1937 Mound has endeavored to represent the entire student body; to assimilate the most outstanding phases of campus life and organize them in an unique and artistic manner. As representatives of the student body, we have attempted to achieve these aims. Our efforts are here bound within the pages of this volume.

We acknowledge the cooperation shown by the student body and we especially thank the following people for their aid: Dr. Joseph Rosier, Miss Laura Lewis, Mr. C. F. Rogers, Miss Elizabeth Hayes, Miss Mary B. Price, Miss Ruth Ferguson, Anne Holbert, Bernard Freeland, Joseph Snider, and the Columns.

The Columns is the student newspaper of Fairmont State Teachers College. It is published weekly and paid for by student subscription, collected at registration time, plus advertising, both local and national.

The paper is affiliated with the West Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association, the National Scholastic Press Association and is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press. The Collegiate Digest, rotogravure supplement, published by the Associated Collegiate Press is distributed each week with the Columns.

The Columns' greatest achievement during 1936-37 was the increase in the size of the pages from a seven-column, four page paper to an eight-column four page paper. This is the first time in its history that the paper has attained the width and length of a regulation size daily newspaper. Seven years ago it was a five-column sheet and before that it was a mere bulletin.

. . Art . .

For many years there has been a need in the educational world for courses of study which would increase the powers of appreciation and a new mode of self-expression. Fairmont State Teachers College, through its modern and well-organized Art Department, has taken a step forward in meeting this need. By a well-balanced curriculum in Art Education, the school stands foremost in West Virginia in this phase of instruction. Comprising the department are three large, adequately-lighted studios where the student works in an atmosphere wholly aesthetic, while the course of study is planned to be correlative with those of other fields.

Fundamental principles of art structure, principles of design, study of color, composition, methods of teaching, and history and appreciation are taught throughout the four-year period. The Art course has a two-fold purpose, to enlighten the student in higher ideals through a keener sense of self-expression, and to train teachers and supervisors in this line to carry on art instruction in the public schools.

Beginning with the year 1936-37, the department is equipped to grant the Bachelor of Arts degree with a teaching major in Art, an achievement which has given the college outstanding recognition in state educational circles. Each year the heads of the department give concentrated research to the possibilities of instruction in the schools. They have unceasingly developed the promotion of the fine arts for the enrichment of life through the aesthetic media. Because this department has proved itself a worthy and most proficient factor in building human character, the Mound cheerfully tenders this recognition.

. . Music . .

The Music Department of Fairmont State Teachers College has two purposes: to prepare special teachers of music for the elementary grades and high school, and to give to all students who are especially interested an opportunity to develop a deeper appreciation and love for better music. The large adequately-furnished classrooms attarct attention and a spirit of friendliness and cooperation, which is so closely associated with this ever popular study, is found there. The department is quite extensive in organization, maintaining two choral groups, an orchestra, and a band which furnish music for various occasions.

An interesting and worthwhile feature of this department is the awarding of two vocal scholarships each fall, one to a boy and one to a girl. The contestants must be enrolled at the college and must have had no previous voice training.

The primary aim is to prepare special teachers of music. Classes in principles, methods and materials for teaching, as well as sight singing, vocal training, harmony, history and appreciation of music are included in the course of study. At present the subject is a minor one, but in the near future it will be added to the list of those departments offering a major certificate.

Due to a recent ruling by the State Board of Education requiring music in the public schools, our college will do everything possible to further development in this field.

The Girls' Choral Club is an organization composed of girls who are especially interested and talented in voice. The members are carefully selected to obtain a well balanced chorus. Preparation is made for various programs, given on the college campus, for leading organizations in Fairmont and other cities.

Each year the club is organized, it works toward some project, such as a trip, or a special program. An outstanding event this year was the Musicale and Tea given by Mary B. Price, director, assisted by the Choral Club.

- - Science - -

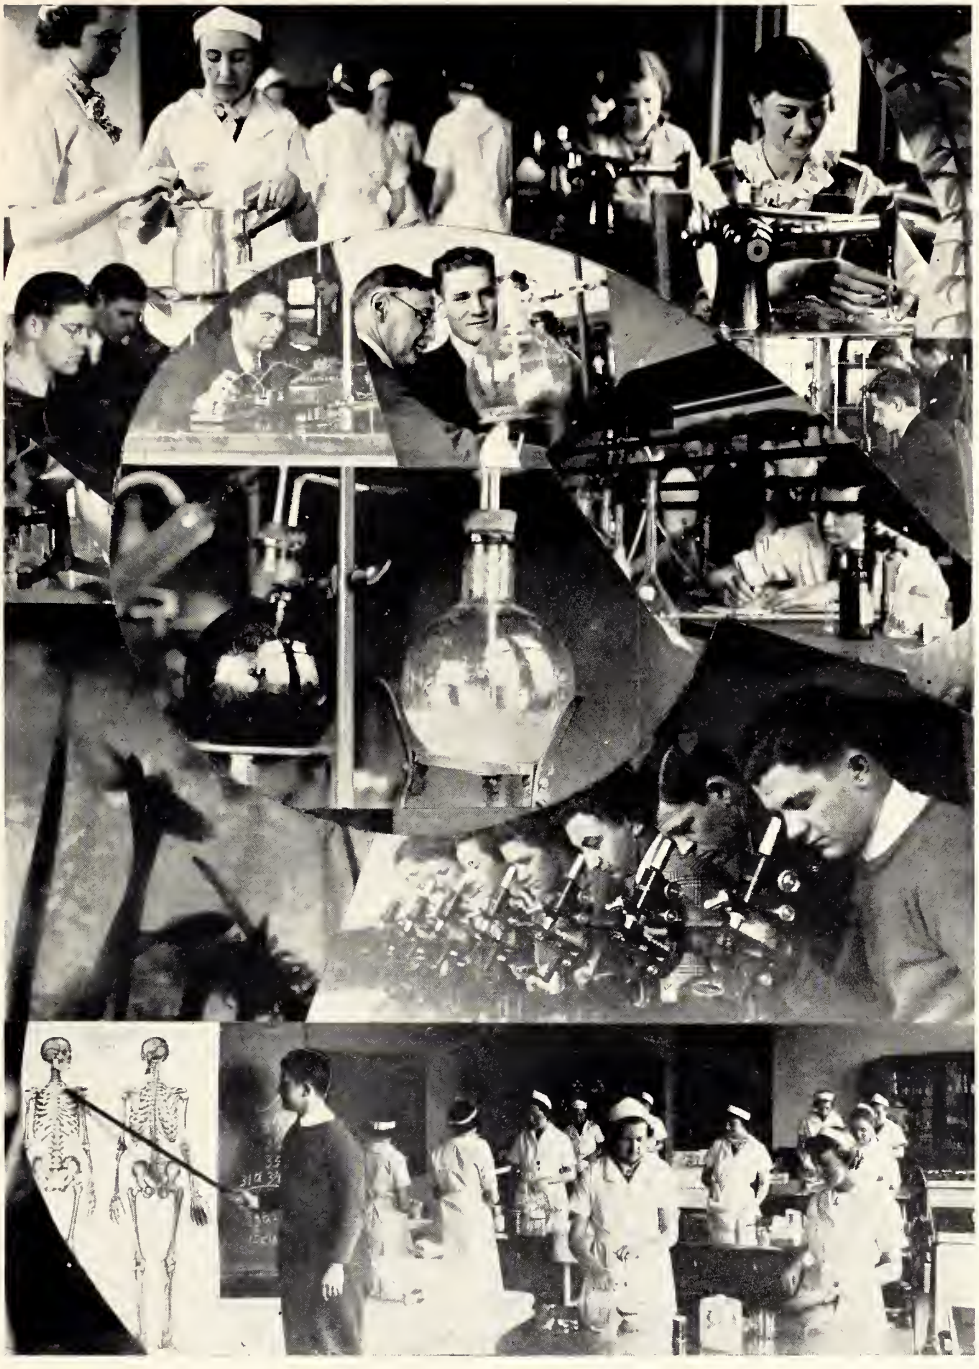
The Science Hall of Fairmont State Teachers College is one of the most attractive and most complete in the state. The building is relatively new and is thus well equipped with many modern devices that are so essential to the world of science. The beauty of the Hall itself adds much to the charm and allure of the popular sciences which are housed within its walls. Every year this school of science is increasing in importance and popularity.

The Physics and Chemistry laboratories and class rooms are on the third floor of Science Hall. One would be impressed with the adequate provisions made for teaching the physical sciences. There are six large laboratories, two lecture rooms, supply rooms, preparation and balance rooms, small special laboratories, dark rooms, and offices. The laboratories are provided with well-ventilated hoods. The furniture, apparatus and teaching equipment compares favorably with the best in the state. Numerous interesting experiments are going on all of the time.

Freshmen chemistry is taught to more than one hundred students each year. About half of these are beginners. A separate class section is provided for students who have studied chemistry in high school. An interesting new project in this class is the organization of the Alembic Club which holds meetings once a week, presenting programs which consist of lecture-table demonstrations by the students themselves, also short talks on interesting current science topics.

The biological sciences have two large attractive-looking laboratories on the first and second floors. There are plenty of interesting specimens to see and interesting experimental work in progress. The lecture rooms, research laboratories, offices and supply rooms have good teaching equipment. However, in all of the science departments there is always the need for additional equipment for growth and improvement.

The department of home economics occupies a part of the second floor of Science Hall. The savory odors that come from this quarter at times offset those less agreeable smells from Chemistry and Biology. The sewing and cooking laboratories are most attractive. There is a special textile laboratory, a demonstration dining-room, and also there are offices, storage rooms and provision for a proposed advance dietetics laboratory.



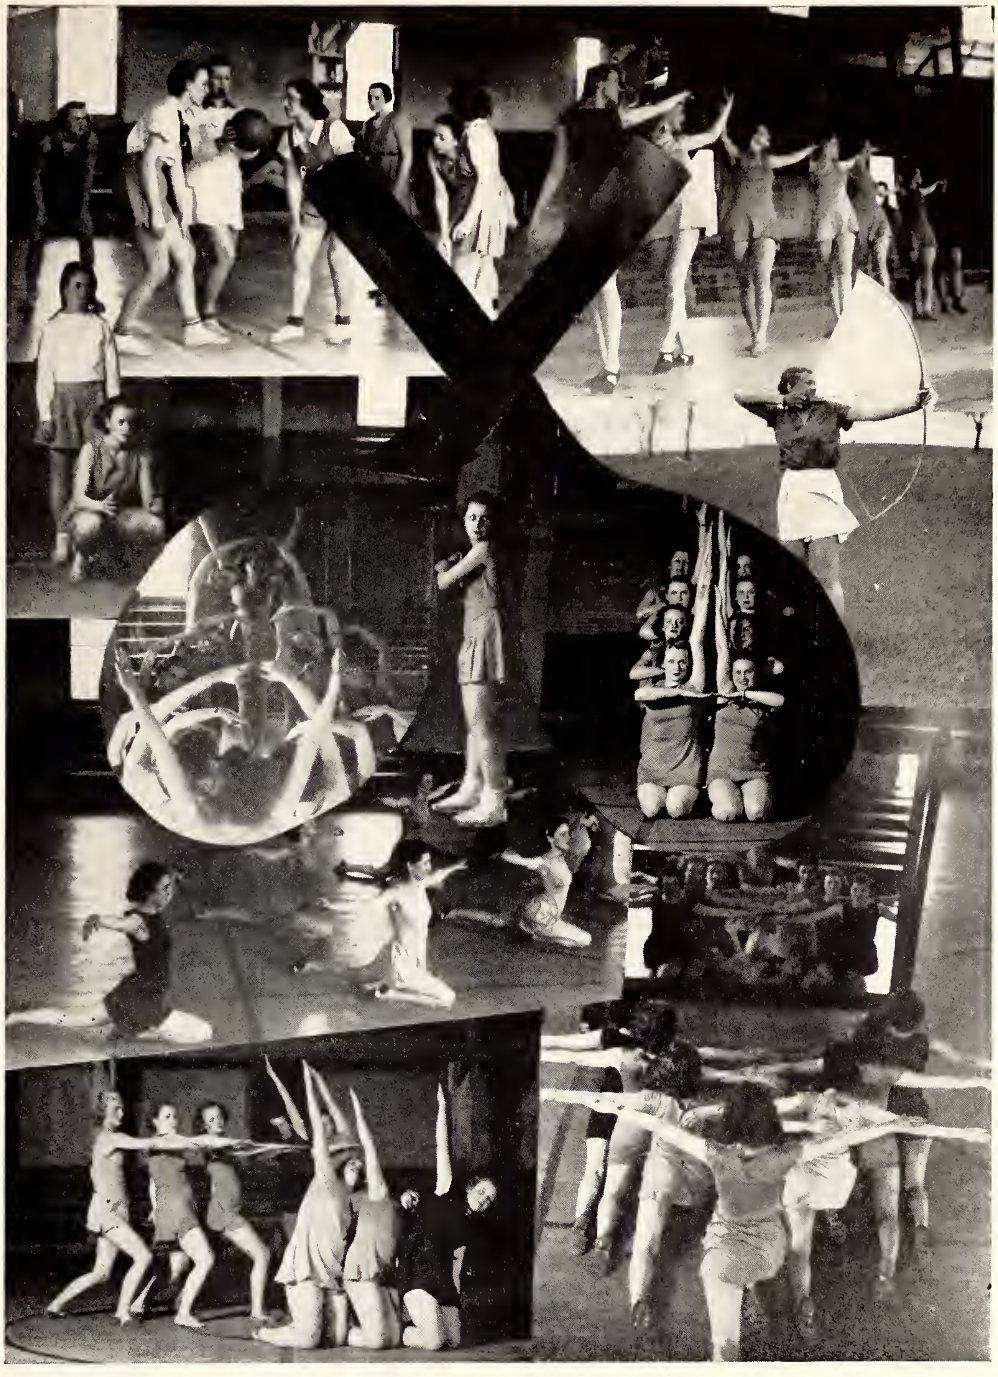
Women's Physical Education

The Health and Physical Education department has been given a place among the major departments of Fairmont State College during the year of 1936-37. One may now earn a Bachelor of Arts degree in the field of physical education. Up until this time it has been offered only as a second teaching field.

The department has a three-fold aim: to give instruction for the general use of college students who do not want to teach in this field; to give the Standard Normal student background and instruction in teaching in elementary schools; and to afford a major teacher training subject. The last aim has necessitated the adding of new courses in order to meet the state requirements. Among those which have been added are: rhythmic form and analysis, playground and recreation, kinesiology, and swimming. Other courses, which until this year were not given state credit, are: physiology of exercise, health examinations, adapted physical education principles and programs, and materials and methods.

Our standard in health instruction is working through health service. An attempt is being made to require all students to have a yearly medical examination by the school physician and a postural examination by the physical education department. Following the examination, a letter is sent directly to the parents, listing conditions present and recommendations for correction.

In 1935 the Orchesis society was founded. It is an organization composed of girls who are primarily interested in modern dance creation. Each year they give two programs: "The Juggler of Notre Dame" which is presented at Christmas time and the regular Spring recital.



Dramatics

There had been dramatic activity on the Campus for many years before, no doubt, but in the year 1922 this activity gained its real impetus when a group of interested students organized the Masquers Club.

At that time there was no faculty director provided for the plays, so different students took over the direction of the productions for that year. George Turley, later a graduate of the school, was the first president of the club; and Mr. Turley and Ruth Eliason, also a later graduate, were the directors of the plays for that year.

The next year Dr. Paul F. Opp was added to the faculty and given charge of dramatics at this school. Dr. Opp has been the real "father" of dramatics in this locality; indeed, he has organized dramatics nationally—starting Alpha Psi Omega, Delta Psi Omega and The National Thespians, dramatic organizations which have since become nation-wide in scope, both in high school and collegiate circles. It is with deserved pride that Fairmont College can count itself the home of this dynamic dramatic spirit which has covered the nation.

Dramatics, on our campus, are pointed toward the same objectives as those of the college—the training of teachers. Our dramatic courses and activities are aimed toward the training of prospective teachers of dramatics and directors of this extra-curricular activity in the secondary schools of the state. We do not consider it to be our business to point our students toward the professional stage. Our plays and activities are put on for the fun of it and the pure joy in the achievement. Any students who find their way into professional channels from our campus, choose this course of their own volition.

Four major productions comprise the year's program of dramatics on our campus. The productions are varied in types—ranging from the comic to the serious drama—and the casts are chosen from the entire student body with everyone getting an equal chance to participate according to their talents. During the first semester of this past year, fifty individuals took an active part in our dramatic activities and this participation entitles this activity to be rated as one of the major student activities of the Fairmont State Teachers College campus.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Mable Dixon Church	MARY HUNSAKER
Ethelyn Church	HOPE BROWN
Janet Dixon	ANN HALL, MARGARET PUTNAM
Cyril Church	HAROLD SCOTT
Dudley Dixon	BROOKS HIGINBOTHAM
Christine Sederholm	ADELIA HUFF
Charlie Post	VICTOR PETITTO
Robert Kirby	VANCE TRIMBLE

The Masquers opened their season with this comedy of a man who was the handy-man of his family and his community. It was a good chuckle show, portrayed by a very competent cast.

The honors go to Mary Hunsaker and Brooks Higinbotham for the most convincing performances. Ann Hall and Margaret Putnam alternated in the role of the grandmother.

The Bad Man

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Gilbert Jones	JAMES OWEN
Henry Smith	HOWARD FRANZ
Morgan Pell	BLAINE ROBINSON

Pedro	VICTOR PETITTO
Venustiano	ARCHIE SANDY
Alverada	ANNA DEMARCO
Bradley	JOHN COPPAGE
Angela Hardy	MABEL EVERLY

This drama of the Mexican border was the type of play that the public loves. It was full of Mexican bandits, shooting, love, and suspense.

Robert Hall, as Pancho Lopez, the Bad Man, earned a place in the repertoire of the Masquers for his brilliant performance. Other honors went to Noel Shutts, Mabel Everly, and Kathleen Harshberger.

Men Must Fight

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Edwin Seward	JOHN FOLEY
Lieutenant Stephen B. Chase	KERMIT ZINN
Evelyn Clyde	JOAN MANLEY
Siebert	BOB BARRICK

"Men Must Fight" is the story of a war in 1940 and the conflicting ideas of three generations concerning war. It takes place in the home of the Secretary of State, Edwin Seward, and among the members of his family.

This play created more comment than any other play of the season. The roles of Edwin Seward, portrayed by John Foley, and Madame Seward, by Mary Virginia Dowden, were particularly outstanding.

Junior Prom

It is the custom each spring for the Junior Class to sponsor an annual Junior-Senior Prom. This is one of the most outstanding events in the social calendar of the school year. The dance is sponsored and planned entirely by the Junior Class. It is given in honor of the graduating class and invitations are issued to every member of the Senior Class as well as to every faculty member. The Junior Class selects from its own group one girl to represent the class as the Queen of the Prom. A representative from each social organization is also selected to complete the court to Her Majesty the Queen. The Junior Prom has become a tradition on the college campus and each year it is eagerly anticipated by the upper classes.

Outstanding Seniors

At the close of each school year four seniors are selected and presented with a gold key. This key is symbolic of the highest award that is recognized on the college campus. These worthy four are selected in regards to their efforts in activities, scholarship, attitude, and accomplishments throughout their entire career in Fairmont College. This year the four students who have so faithfully earned this recognition are Miss Frances Brill, Mrs. Lillian Parker, Mr. Harold Smith, and Mr. George Williamson.

Miss Brill is the daughter of Mrs. Laura M. Brill, of Marlinton. Throughout the past four years she has been very active in the Department of Music and has won much praise for her splendid work. She is an active member of Sigma Theta Rho, social sorority; Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary educational fraternity; Y. W. C. A.; Student Christian Association; Choral Club; and has served as vice-president of the student body for the past school year.

Mrs. Parker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Townsend, of Rivesville. Her special interests and activities have been within the field of Journalism. For the past year she has been editor-in-chief of the Columns, the student publication of the campus. She is a member of Alpha Delta Chi, social sorority; Kappa Delta Pi, educational fraternity; the Masquers; Y. W. C. A.; Tri-V Latin Club, and has been president of the local chapter of Sigma Pi Rho, Latin fraternity, for the past year.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith, of 709 East Park Avenue, Fairmont. As president of the student body for the past school term, he has been most efficient and competent. He is a member of Tau Beta Iota, social fraternity, and served as president of it during his Junior year. This same year saw him serving as president of his class, and as business manager of the 1936 Mound. He is also a member of Lambda Delta Lamba, honorary science fraternity.

Mr. Williamson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Williamson, of 39 Hillside Drive, Fairmont. This year he has held the office of president of the Senior class. He has been active on the local tennis team for the past two years and is a member of Lambda Alpha Sigma, athletic fraternity. In 1935 and 1936 he was a member of the student council. He is also an active member of the Masquers club.

Diary

Let's drop into the lobby for a couple of minutes for a chat about the happenings between the scenes. Let's review the formal and informal entertainments that have tended to relieve the monotony of the school year.

On Sept. 25 the Student Body entertained at a Student Mix and everyone became acquainted with the people that they would be associated with for the coming year. Then Morrow Hall held Open House for Men and the fellows became acquainted with the girls who were to live at the Dorm this year (which is always good policy—it's so handy). The Sigma Theta Rho's Benefit Bridge, Oct. 20 was a good idea for the shin-kicking partners and kibitzers convention. The T. B. I. Closed Party must have been very closed because we didn't hear anything about it to comment on. The Alpha Delt's staged a very lovely Hallowe'en Party this year with an orchestra and everything. These are always fun because they give the femmes a whole evening to behave as they please and they don't have to be putting on airs for the opposite sex.

Didn't you enjoy our Dad's Day this year? I still think it is rather out of keeping to call it Dad's Day when the students enjoy it more. They take their Dads to the game but—they don't seem to think that he would like to dance or else they are afraid that he will spoil their fun, because there are very few Dads at the dances.

A new idea in shows reared its ugly head this year . . . "Knickerbocker Town." The Sigma Tau production. We can't say much about that either because we were in it but we can and will say that we hope they do it again next year and that the muckle heads who fussed so much this year stay at home. They just couldn't get the satire. We're afraid that it was a bit too sophisticated for the common audience.

One of the loveliest affairs of the year was the Gamma Faculty Tea. We hand it to the Gammas—they certainly can put on the dog. Another delightful tea was the Christmas Tea at Morrow Hall. The Open House of the same evening was fun, too. There were other Christmas celebrations equally as delightful—the Omicron Pi Closed Party, Delta Sigma Epsilon party, Alpha Delta Chi Tea, the Sigma Theta Rho Tea and the Gamma Chi Chi formal.

Diary

The social season of the first semester closed with the Kappa Delta Pi initiation.

Opening the second semester were the various initiations and everyone went around wearing flowers or ribbons, sporting brand new pins, etc.

We were expecting to see the T. B. I.'s going around pulling rabbits out of hats and such but it seems that their magician, Weber, wouldn't show them how it was done.

We thought that we were going to be spectacular on the Hill this winter with two orchestras playing for the Panhellenic but something happened. it was a grand dance, though, with confetti and everything.

Valentine Day couldn't slip by, of course, without the usual run of teas and parties. The Sigma Sigma Sigma gave their annual Tea and the 4-H Club gave a party.

We hand orchids to the Delta Sigs for their Tea-Dance on St. Patrick's Day. It was very lovely and the decorations were charming.

Did you attend the Omicron Pi—Sigma Sigma Sigma Easter Prom? You missed a grand dance if you didn't. They even had Bob Down's orchestra in an Easter basket.

The Alpha Delt production didn't seem to come up to the standard that they set last year but it was still a good show. We liked M. L. M. and K. M., but we wondered if the latter wrote her own part in one place. We didn't notice it but has been called to our attention.

The Who's Who Tea, which is the annual tea that people about the campus look forward to, (to see if they will be honored by an invitation) was held April 13. We did receive an invitation but we can't find out why.

As we write this one of the Spring Formals is in the past, the Morrow Hall formal, and the others are to be held soon. We don't know what they are going to do in the way of decoration or entertainment but we predict that they will be even more delightful than the ones in the past.

The Junior Prom went over big this year, especially with the visiting Thespians. The queen, Margaret Conrad, looked very, very lovely. Her court, in pastel colors, was very sedate and charming.

What happened to the T. B. I. show this year? They certainly broke loose and we are afraid it was a little to the smutty side. Don't they know that they can't do that?

We'll close this now and if you want a written account of the formals and such which come at the end of the year—well there is always the Colmuns and Archie Sandy's column.

Fairmont State Teachers College

This institution is centrally located in a populous section of West Virginia. It is convenient to the homes of a large number of young men and women who are offered superior educational advantages. This college provides the following advantages which should be carefully noted by young people in northern West Virginia seeking higher education:

1. It has a faculty of highly trained and experienced men and women.
2. It has a large library of well selected books.
3. It has a modern, well equipped Science Building.
4. It offers unusual opportunities for student activity and participation.
5. It has a rich and educative social life.
6. It provides higher education at moderate cost to the student.
7. Its graduates rank high in the field of teaching and at other institutions.

The cooperation of graduates and students in building up our college is requested. If our graduates believe the above statements they should impress them upon their friends who are choosing a school. For information write to Joseph Rosier, President.
